PREFACE

This work has been compiled under the auspices of the Maine Historical Society. With certain exceptions, its purpose is to give the full title of every book, pamphlet, and reputable magazine article at any time printed in or having reference to Maine, and also all of which the authors were, at the time of writing or publishing, residents within the state.

The exceptions are chiefly public, municipal and legal reports, and pamphlets which relate to organizations not of an historical, literary, charitable or religious character. Although many of the best literary productions of the State are to be found only in its newspapers, no attempt to enumerate these has been made with the exception of such as have been preserved in other form.

The plan also excludes the writings of native authors, printed or published after they have ceased to be residents, unless these have some special relation to Maine.

In all cases possible, titles have been copied from the original works; those in catalogues being adopted only as a last resort.

Cross references to general and local histories, encyclopædias, and biographical dictionaries have been usually omitted.

The task of the compiler has been greatly lessened by kind aid received from his friends in all parts of the country. The bountiful assistance of Mr. Hubbard W. Bryant, librarian of the Maine Historical Society, of Professors George T. Little and Edward W. Hall, librarians respectively of Bowdoin College and Colby University, has largely contributed to the completeness of the work. Special acknowledgement is due to Mr. John Ward Dean and to Samuel Abbott Green, M. D., both of Boston, for numerous kind offices and encouraging words. He is under great obligation to Mr. J. G. Elder, of Lewiston, not only for free access to his unequaled collection of Maine books and pamphlets, but also for transcripts of numerous titles which otherwise would have escaped notice; to Mr. E. Freeman Duren, of Bangor, for a list of works compiled during his long career as a publisher; and to Mr. Calvin W. Lewis, of Boston, who has been indefatigable in securing a large array of authorities concerning "Lovewell's Fight."

Although the book may lack some of the characteristics of a technical bibliography, the compiler trusts that it will meet with favorable acceptance. It has been with him a labor of love.

Belfast, April, 1896.

——Remarks on the French Memorials concerning the Limits of Acadia: Printed at the Royal printing house at Paris, and distributed by the French ministers at all the foreign courts of Europe. With two maps, exhibiting the limits: One according to the system of the French as inserted in the said Memorials: The other conformable to the English rights, as supported by the authority of treaties, continual grants of the French king, and express passages of the best French authors. To which is added, an answer to the summary discussion, &c. London: Printed for T. Jefferys, at the Corner of St. Martin's Lane, in the Strand. MDCCLVI. 8vo. pp. 112. (2 folding maps.) [80

This volume surpasses all others for valuable historical, geographical and bibliographical information respecting Nova Scotia or Acadia and part of

Canada. The two maps on the same scale show clearly what is claimed by both parties, French and English. They cover the whole territory south of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, east of Lake Champlain, and north of Massachusetts, and include all the disputed tracts and grants of the English limits claimed in 1750 and 1751: limits of Acadia and Port Royal by the Treaty of Utrecht; limits of Nova Scotia as granted to Sir Wm. Alexander, 1621; Cromwell's grant to La Tour, Crown and Temple in 1656: the country restored to France by the Treaty of Breda: the government of Denys in 1654, Charnesay's in 1638 and La Tour's in 1638. The English map delineates Nova Scotia as claimed by the English by the Treaty of Utrecht, 1713: as granted to Sir Wm. Alexander, 1621: according to Champlain, 1603-29: with the country west to the Penobscot: Acadia as granted by Louis XIII and XIV, 1632-1710: enlarged to the Kennebec by further grant to Stirling, 1653: Acadia proper occording to the tripartite division named by Charlevoix: Charnesay's and La Tour's Government in 1656: Acadia claimed by France at the Treaty of Breda, 1667: Norembega, between the Penobscot and the Kennebec: and the Etechemins' coast according to Champlain and Denys. Glacial Phenomena in Maine, pp. 90–152.

In September, 1864, Agassiz made an excursion into Maine, partly to examine the drift phenomena on the islands and coast of that state and partly to study the so-called "horse backs." The journey proved to be one of the most interesting he had made in this country with reference to local glacial phenomena.

Compass in hand, he followed the extraordinary ridges of morainic material lying between Bangor and Katahdin, to the Ebeene Mountains, at the foot of which are the Katahdin Iron Works. Returning to Bangor, he pursued with the same minute investigations, the glacial bracks and erratic material from that place to the sea-coast and to Mount Desert. The details of this journey and its results are given in one of the papers contained in the second volume of his "Geological Sketches." Life of Agassiz, by his wife. 1885. p. 622.

Reviewed by George S. Hillard, No. Am. Rev. 92: 515. (1861.) The most remarkable thing about Chief Justice Appleton is his early adoption of the views of Jeremy Bentham and that school in regard to legal reform. He entered into this discussion with the greatest enthusiasm half a century ago, and has never ceased with tongue and pen to advocate these doctrines. When he began this labor, it required no small courage to meet the scorn, contempt and even abuse of the legal profession. Such radical doctrines the lawyers all thought were worthy of a mad-house, and they were denounced with vigor and not seldom with venom. Now all is changed. In every state of the Union, as well as in England, ancient and absurd rules of evidence have been altered, and common sense has full sway in the most important branch of jurisprudence. To no man living is the credit due more than to John Appleton. Every Other Sat., Jan. 1884.

ATCHESON, NATHANIEL.

A compressed view of the points to be discussed in treating with the United States of America; A. D., 1814. With an appendix and two maps.

"At present, amongst the European nations, a naval strength, which is the portion of Great Britain, is more than ever of the greatest importance to sovereignty, as well because most of the kingdoms of Europe are not continents, but in a good measure surrounded by sea, as because the treasures of both Indies seem but an accessory to the Dominion of the Sea."

BACON.

"The Sea, which is our Mother, that embraces
Both the rich Indies in her outstretched arms,
Yields every day a crop, if we dare reap it."

BREWER, SIDNEY S. Clergyman.

An Exposition of the Sixth Chapter of Revelation: the seven seals By S. S. Brewer.

"The Revelation of Jesus Christ, which God gave unto him, to show unto his servants things which must come to pass; and he sent and signified it by his angel unto his servant John, who bare record of the word of God, and of the testimony of Jesus Christ, and of all things that he saw. Blessed is he that readeth, and they that hear the words of this prophecy, and keep those things which are written therein; for the time is at hand. Blessed is he that keepeth the sayings of the prophecy of this book; and he saith unto me, seal not the sayings of this book." Rev. i. 1, 2, 3. xxii. 7. 10.

BUZZELL, JOHN. Clergyman, Parsonsfield. 1798-1863.
A Religious Magazine: containing a short history of the church of Christ, gathered at New Durham, N. H., in the year 1780. And now spreading its various branches in almost every direction through the states of New Hampshire, Vermont, the District of Maine and in many other parts of America. Also a particular account of religion, by John Buzzell, preacher of the gospel in Parsonsfield, Maine.

"The Kingdom of Heaven is like to a grain of mustard seed, which a man took and sowed in his field. Which indeed is the least of all seed, but when it is grown is the greatest among herbs, and becometh a tree: so that the birds of the air come and lodge in the branches thereof." Matt. xiii: 31, 32.

Portland: Printed by J. M'Kown. Augusta. 1811. 12mo. pp. 36. [1845

——Psalms, Hymns and Scriptural Songs, selected for the use of the united churches of Christ, commonly called Free Will Baptists, and for saints of all denominations. By John Buzzell, minister of the gospel. Kennebunk: Printed by James K. Remick, for John Buzzell and Elias Libby. 1823. sm. 4to. pp. 348. [1846

——The Life of Elder Benjamin Randall, principally taken from documents written by himself. By John Buzzell, M. G. "Being dead yet speaketh." Heb. 11: 4. Limerick: Hobbs, Woodman & Co. 1827. 12mo. pp. 308. [1847

Elder Randall was the founder of the Freewill Baptist Society in America, and his book is full of reminiscences of persons and places in Maine and New Hampshire.

A Summer Cruise on the Coast of New England.

"They are becalmed in the clearest days,
And in rough weather tost:
They wither under cold delays,
Or are in tempests lost.
One while they seem to touch the port,
Then straight into the main,
Some angry wind in cruel sport,
The vessel drives again."

SIR CHARLES SEDLEY.

"How sweet it was. . . . .
Eating the lotos day by day
To watch the crisping ripples on the beach,
And tender curving lines of creamy spray."

CHAPONE, HESTER M. English author. 1727-1801.

Letters on the improvement of the mind. Addressed to a lady. By Mrs. Chapone.

I consider an human soul without education, like marble in the quarry, which shows none of its inherent beauties till the skill of the polisher fetches out the color, makes the surface shine and discovers every ornamental cloud, spot, and vein that runs through the body of it. Education, after the same manner, when it works upon a noble mind, draws out to view every latent virtue and perfection, which without such helps, are never able to make their appearance. ADDISON.

Portland: Printed for Daniel Johnson. John M'Kown, Printer. n. d. 16mo. pp. 186. [2041

"Still on its creeps,
Each little moment at another's heels,
Till hours, days, years, and ages are made up
Of such small parts as these, and men look back
Worn and bewildered, wondering how it is.
Thou trav'llest like a ship in the wide ocean,
Which hath no bounding shore to mark its progress."

How sleep the Brave who sink to rest
By all their Country's wishes blest!
When Spring, with dewy fingers cold,
Returns to deck their hallow'd mould,
She there shall dress a sweeter sod,
Than Fancy's feet have ever trod.

By fairy hands their knell is rung,
By forms unseen their dirge is sung:
There Honor comes, a pilgrim gray,
To bless the turf that wraps their clay,
And Freedom shall a while repair,
To dwell a weeping hermit there!

Quotes that at Pittston, Me., trees three feet in diameter, and with six hundred annular rings were found, associated with brick work, which, so far as appearances went, antedated the trees. This is refuted by Prof. Henry W. Haynes (Mass. Hist. Soc. Proc. 2d. ser. 5: 337,) who says that rings are not a safe criterion for determining the age of trees, and that trees of Maine, such as the pine and spruce, do not live to the age of six hundred years.

Reprinted in advance from Proc. Mass. Hist Soc. 18: 82: 118, (1880-81.) It contains a facsimile of the original manuscript title.

It would seem from the internal evidence furnished by the journal and express testimony of Purchas, (Smith's Generall Historie, p. 203) that this composition was by James Davies, who, in the organization at Sagadahoc, held the office of captain of the fort. This journal was found to be the source whence Strachey drew his account of the colony. Winsor; Hist. Am. 3: 193. Alexander Brown (Genesis U. S. 1: 141) says that it was probably written by Davies. The preface reviews the story of the settlement, and the appendix reprints the extracts from Gorges, Smith, Purchas. and Alexander, from which, previous to the publication of Strachey's account, all knowledge of the colony was derived.

EMBARGO.

In a bound volume in the library of the Massachusetts Historical Society, is a collection of pamphlets relating to the Embargo Act, and the following manuscript memorandum is found with them in the middle of the book:

"A collection of pamphlets issued by a committee of public safety, chosen by the town of Portland, in the county of Cumberland, state of Massachusetts, January, 1809, which committee consisted of the following gentleman: viz. Hon. Samuel Freeman, Enoch Ilsley, Daniel Tucker, Woodbury Storer, Peter Warren, Lemuel Weeks, James D. Hopkins, Stephen Longfellow, Jun., and William Goddard.

The titles of the pamphlets are as follows:

——"Politics for Farmers," or common sense addressed to common people. Mr. Sloan's Speech. n. t. p. 8vo. pp. 8. [3121

This was issued at the Freeman's Friend Office, January 19, 1809, and has "Number 1" at foot of the first page.

——Read, Citizens of Maine, and Judge for Yourself. n. t. p. 4to. pp. (4.) [3121a

This contains "The Constitution Gone!" "Violations of Unalienable Rights by Mr. Gallatin's and Mr. Giles' Bill," signed by "A Descendant of the Pilgrims:" and "Mr. Crowninshield's Resolutions," (Report of a committee in the House of Representatives, November 16, 1808.) Mr. Master's Speech.

——"In the day of adversity consider." n. t. p. 12mo. pp. 24. [3122

This has "No. II," printed at the foot of the first page, and contains an introductory portion, pp. 1-3, signed by "A '75 man:" common sense in Dishabille;" "Mr. Sloan's Speech, or Mr. Nicholas' and Mr. Bacon's Resolutions, February 7, 1809. (pp. 4-17), and "Hear Mr. Lyon." (Extract of a letter from him to a friend in Vermont, Washington, February, 1809, signed "Matthew Lyon.") The pamphlet was issued at the Freeman's Friend Office, Portland.

——Mr. Bayard's Speech on his motion to amend the resolution offered by Mr. Giles, by striking out that part which is in italics. Delivered in the Senate of the United States, Tuesday, February, 14, 1809. n. t. p. 12mo. pp. 24. [3123

This also contains Mr. Hillhouse's Speech, Feb. 14, 1809, pp. 18-24. The pamphlet was printed at the Gazette Office, Portland, by Arthur Shirley.

EMERSON, RALPH WALDO. 1803-82. Concord, Mass.

The Method of Nature. An oration delivered before the Society of Adelphi, in Waterville College in Maine, August 11th, 1841. Boston: S. G. Simpkins. 1841. 8vo. pp. 30. [3136

Severely criticized in Mo. Miscel. 5:346. (1841.)

In writing to Carlyle on the 31st of July, 1841, Emerson says:

"As usual at this season of the year, I, incorrigible spouting Yankee, am writing an oration to deliver to the boys in one of our little country colleges nine days hence." Life of Emerson, by Oliver Wendell Holmes, p. 136.

"My oration was heard with cold, silent, unresponsive attention, in which there seemed to be a continued unuttered rebuke and protest. The services were closed with prayer, and the good man who prayed, prayed for the orator, but also warned his hearers against heresies and wild notions, which appeared to me of that kind for which I was held responsible. The address was really written in the heart and happiness of what I thought a real inspiration: but all the warmth was extinguished in that lake of iced water." Substance of the author's statement to Edwin P. Whipple, as contained in his "Recollections of Eminent Men," p. 146. (1886.) See also Cabot's Memoir, 1: 467. The same story is told of an address delivered at Middlebury, Vermont, four years later. Possibly, in his account to Mr. Whipple, Emerson confounded them together. The minister's prayer was that they might be delivered from ever again hearing such transcendental nonsense from the sacred desk. Emerson, the story goes, asked the name of the clergyman, and said, "He seems a very conscientious, plain-spoken man."

——The Speech of John Gardiner, Esq. Delivered in the House of Representatives, on Thursday, the twenty-sixth day of January, 1792, on the subject of the report of the committee, appointed to consider the expediency of repealing the law against theatrical exhibitions within the Commonwealth.

"To wake the soul by tender strokes of art,
To raise the genius, and to mend the heart;
To make mankind; in conscious virtue bold,
Live o'er each scene and be what they behold:
For this the Tragic Muse first trod the stage,
Commanding tears to stream thro' every age;
Tyrants no more their savage nature kept,
And foes to virtue wonder'd how they wept."

POPE.

"Quod si non hic tantus fructus ostenderetur, et si ex his studiis delectatio sola peteretur: tamen, ut opinor, hanc animi remissionem humanissimam ac liberissimam judicaretis. Nam cætera neque temporum sunt, neque ætatum omnium, neque locorum: Hæc studia adolescentiam alunt, senectutem oblectant, secundas res ornant, adversis perfugium ac solatium præbent; delectant domi, non impediunt foris; pernoctant nobiscum, pergrinantur, resticantur. Quod si ipsi hæc neque attingere, neque sensu nostro gustare possemus, tamen ea mirari deberemus, etiam cum in aliis videremus."

CICERO, pro Archia Poeta.

TRANSLATION:

"But were pleasure only to be derived from learning, without the advantages we have mentioned, you must still, I imagine, allow it to be a very liberal and polite amusement. For other studies are not suited to every time, to every age, and to every place; but these give strength in youth, and joy in old age; adorn prosperity, and are the support and consolation of adversity; at home they are delightful, and abroad they are easy; at night they are company to us; when we travel they attend us; and in our rural retirement they do not forsake us. Though we, ourselves, were incapable of them, and had no relish for their charms, still we should admire them when we see them in others.

GILMAN, NICHOLAS PAINE.

Profit Sharing Between Employer and Employee. A study in the evolution of the wages system. By Nicholas Paine Gilman.

The present doctrine is that the workman's interests are linked to those of other workmen, and the employer's to those of other employers. Eventually it will be seen that industrial divisions should be perpendicular, not horizontal. The workman's interests should be bound up with those of his employer, and should be pitted in fair competition against those of other workmen and employers.

GOODRICH, JEREMIAH.

Murray's Reader: or pieces in prose and poetry selected from the best writers. Designed to assist young persons to read with propriety and effect; to improve their language and sentiments; and to inculcate some of the most important principles of piety and virtue. With a few preliminary observations on the principles of good reading. Improved by the addition of a concordant and synonimising vocabulary. Consisting of about fifteen hundred of the most important words contained in this work. The words are arranged in columns and are placed over the selections respectively from which they are selected; and are divided, defined and pronounced according to the principles of John Walker. The words in the vocabulary and their correspondent words in the section are numbered with figures of reference. Walker's

This tract, written not long before the death of Gorges, was first published by his grandson, of the same name, in 1659, with three other tracts viz: "America Painted to the Life;" "Johnson's Wonder Working Providence," and the "History of the Spanish Proceedings in America," comprising four hundred and forty pages, under the general title of "America Painted to the Life," &c. Each tract has a separate title-page, with different dates and independent paging. "The collection has been a puzzle to bibliographers," says Dr. W. F. Poole. For a discussion of the authorship of the four tracts, see introduction to Dr. Poole's edition of Johnson, pp. xxx-lvi, and "Gorges and his Province of Maine," by J. P. Baxter, 2: 175.

A briefe Relation of the Discovery and Plantation of Nevv England: and of Svndry Accidents therein occvrring. From the yeere of our Lord M.DC.VII to this present M.DC.XXII. Together with the state thereof as it now standeth the generalle forme of gouernment intended; and the division of the whole Territorie into Counties, Baronries, &c. London: Printed by John Haviland, and are to be sold by William Bladen. M.DC.-XXII. sm. 4to. pp. 35. [3845

This book was entered in the Stationer's Register, July 15th, 1622, and opposite the entry appear the names of Mistress Griffith, probably the wife of George Griffith, and associate adventurer with Sir Ferdinando Gorges, and of John Haviland. Note prefixed to the imprint in J. P. Baxter's "Sir Ferdinando Gorges and the Province of Maine," 1: 200. Mr. Baxter regards Gorges as the sole author.

Gorges, Ferdinando. 1630-1718. Grandson of Sir Ferdinando Gorges. England.

America Painted to the Life. The true history of the Spaniard's Proceedings in the conquests of the Indians, and of their civil wars among themselves, from Columbus his first discovery, to these later times. As also, Of the original undertakings of the advancement of plantations into those parts; with a perfect relation of our English discoveries, shewing their beginning, progress, and continuance, from the year 1628, to 1658. Declaring the forms of their government, policies, religions, manners, customs, military discipline, wars with the Indians, the commodities of their countries, a description of their towns and havens, the increase of their trading, with the names of their governors and magistrates. More especially, an absolute narrative of the north parts of America, and of the discoveries and plantations at our English in Virginia, New England, and Berbadoes. Published by Ferdinando Gorges, Esq; A work now at last exposed for the publick good, to stir up the heroic and active spirits of these times, to benefit their countrey, and eternize their names by such honorable attempts. For the reader's clearer understanding of the countreys, they are lively described in a compleat and ex-

GREENE, ROSCOE GODDARD. Educator, Portland.

A Compend of English Grammar; designed for the use of the student while attending a course of lectures on etymology and syntax; containing emblematical charts of the several modes and tenses arranged on the principles of locality and association. By R. G. Greene.

"The institution of lectures is, of all helps that can be given, the most valuable when circumstances permit; that is, in towns of a certain size. Much may be thus taught, even without any other instruction; but combined with reading and subservient to it, the effects of public lectures are great indeed. The students are enable to read with advantage; things are explained to them which no books sufficiently illustrate; access is afforded to teachers who can remove the difficulties which occur perpetually in the reading of uneducated persons; and a word may often suffice to get rid of some obstacles which would have impeded the unassisted student's progress for days."

GUSTIN, GEORGE WILMOT. Pittston, Pa.
(Augustine Jean) Gustin. Me. Rec. 6: 353. (1889.) [4073

(W) G. A Brief Narrative, or poem, giving an account of the hostile action of some pagan Indians towards Lieut. Jacob Tilton, and his brother Daniel Tilton, both of the town of Ipswich, as they were on board a small vessel at the eastward: which happened in the summer-time, in the year 1722. With an account of the valiant exploits of the said Tiltons, and their victorious conquest over their insulting enemies. Newburyport—from a reprint of I. Thomas and H. W. Tinges. Printed by W. & J. Gilman, No. 9 State Street, June, 1834. [4074

Of this affair, Penhallow says:

"The chief, Capt. Samuel, with five others, boarded Lieut. Tilton, as he lay at anchor fishing, near Damariscove. They pinioned him and his brother, and beat them very sorely: at length one getting unloosed, released the other." They then fell with desperate fury on the Indians, kill one, and mortally wound two more.

——The same. N. E. Reg. 2: 271, (1848), under title "A Tragedy of the Sea," with preliminary notes. [4075

——The same. Boston. Printed by Robert Wier, March, 1852. Broadside.

The lines are arranged in three columns.

It is uncertain where the original was printed. The first Newburyport edition probably appeared in 1773 or 1774, as Isaiah Thomas and Henry W. Tinges published the Essex Journal there during portions of those years.

GYLES, JOHN. 1678-1755. Military commander, Brunswick, St. Georges.
Memoirs of odd adventures, strange deliverances, etc., in the captivity of John Gyles, Esq., commander of the garrison on St. George's River, in the District of Maine. Written by himself.

Forgetful Youth! but know the Power above
With ease can save each object of his love;
Wide as his will extends his boundless Grace;
Nor lost by time, nor circumscribed by Place.
Happier his lot, who many sorrows past,
Long lab'ring gains his natal shore at last;
Than who too speedy, hastes to end his life
By some stern Ruffian.

Fanshawe, a tale.

"Wilt thou go on with me?"

SOUTHEY.

Boston: Marsh & Capen, 362 Washington Street. Press of Putnam & Hunt. 1828. 12mo. Title with copyright on verso followed by pp. 3-141. [4311

A copy was priced by Charles Scribner's Sons in November, 1894, at $125. Mr. Charles B. Foote's copy, in expensive binding and with uncut leaves, was bought at a sale in November in 1894, by Dodd, Mead and Co., for $155.

——Fanshawe and other pieces by Nathaniel Hawthorne. Boston: James R. Osgood and Company. 1876. 12mo. pp. 243. [4312

When first issued it made little or no impression on the public. Afterward s when the author had struck into the vein of fiction that came to be known as distinctively his own, he attempted to suppress this youthful work, and was so successful that he obtained and destroyed all but a few of the copies then extant.

Mr. Longfellow found in the descriptions and general atmosphere of the book a decided suggestion of the situation of Bowdoin College, and the life there at the time when he and Hawthorne were both undergraduates of that institution. Introductory note to edition of 1883.

HAZLITT, WILLIAM. English clergyman.

A Thanksgiving Discourse preached at Hallowell, 15 December, 1785. By William Hazlitt, A. M. Boston: Printed and sold by Samuel Hall, in State Street. MCDDLXXXVI. 8vo. Title-page. pp. 5-19. [4369a

"In the autumn of this year (1785), Mr. Sam. Vaughan persuaded him to go to a new settlement on Kennebec River, called Hallowell, in the Province of Maine, where Mr. Vaughan had a large tract of land and much interest in settling the township. This was in the midst of the woods, with a few acres cleared round each farm, as usual in all their new places, which by degrees, are changed from solitary woods to a fruitful land. At this time the wolves were near neighbors, and sometimes at night would come prowling about the place, making a dismal noise with their hideous barking, and as the doors were without locks, and my father slept on the ground floor, he used to fasten his door by putting his knife over the latch to prevent a visit from these wild beasts. In this remote place he found a very respectable society, many of them genteel people. Here he preached a Thanksgiving sermon which was afterwards printed at Boston. It was a custom in New England to preach one every year after harvest. He would have had no objection to settling with these people but it would not have been eligible for his sons. John's profession was not wanted in the woods, where good hunters and husbandmen were more needed. He therefore, after spending the winter there, returned to us in the spring; and he narrowly escaped being lost in the Bay of Fundy, to which the sailors, for its frequent and dreadful tempests, have given the name of the Devil's Cauldron."

THE HAZLITT'S IN AMERICA A CENTURY SINCE, by W. Carew Hazlitt. Antiquary, 10: 139. (1884).

In 1789, Rev. James Freeman wrote: "Before Mr. Hazlitt came to Boston, the Trinitarian doxology was almost universally used. That honest, good man prevailed upon several respectable ministers to omit it. Since his departure, the number of those who repeat only scriptural doxologies has greatly increased, so that there are many churches in which the worship is strictly Unitarian."

——A True Account of all the Presbyterian and Congregational ministers that were settled or preached for a year or more, from Kennebec to St. George's Fort, for seventy and seven years past to this time, speaking but little of any of the late preachers; but hope some careful observer will, twenty years hence, when their works and fruit will testify for them what they are and by whom they were sent, for the tree is known by the fruit, and I hope their fruit will be better for twenty years to come than it has been these seventy and seven years past. With some account of what we became by the fall, and what we shall be in Christ, and on some divine subjects.

Take neither silver nor gold, nor brass in your purse, nor scrip for your journey, freely ye receive, freely give, for nothing is freer than a gift.

By William Jones, elder. Printed for the author. 1808. Bristol, Maine. 8vo. pp. 93. [5019 value of gold and silver, as lately altered; A method to find bees in the woods: anecdotes: roads; innholders, with other useful and necessary matters, &c. Calculated for the meridian of Boston in America. Latitude 42 deg. 25 min. North. By Nathanael Low.

When first the World in all its glory shone,
E'er sin was born or man was yet undone,
One universal Paradise was seen,
And Earth with Heaven might justly claim a-kin.
But when th' offence its baneful influence spread,
All Nature sicken'd and its beauty fled;
Disorder reign'd, where comely order dwelt,
And plagues and sorrows by Mankind were felt.

——Lowell's Down-East Commentator, or declaration of independence! Being a dissertation of the conflicting elements of liberty and slavery, as they exist under the constitution of the United States; By Charles Lowell, member of the Hancock (Maine) bar, a plebeian Democratic Whig.

We hold these truths to be self-evident—that all men are created equal—that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights—that among these are Life, Liberty, and the Pursuit of Happiness—that to secure these rights Governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed. Amer. Dec. of Ind.

In the possible contingency of a change of circumstances and fortune, and a consequent war of extermination between the two races, God has no attributes by which he could take sides with us in such a contest. I tremble for my country, when I remember that God is just, and that his justice cannot sleep forever.
